Daisy Garden Baby Blanket

By Stephanie Boozer

This sweet baby blanket is reminiscent of a colonial garden, orderly flower beds with cobblestone pathways running between them. The checkerboard patterning adds interest to the delicate daisy stitch.

The generous size provides ample room as a play mat for a baby, a comforting blankie for a toddler, or even as a roof for a blanket fort for a child. This blanket is sure to be loved for many years!

Notes:

Make Daisy: p3tog leaving sts on needle, now knit them together, and then purl them together again. This combines a triple decrease with a triple increase so your stitch count will remain the same.
